

” Recognizing Youthpass – We Recognize Non-Formal Education” Training course on recognition of non formal learning by Youthpass

25 February – 03 March 2009, Kavadarci, Macedonia

The overall aim of the training course:

This Training Course is the first one organized in SEE related to the actual introduction of the Youthpass certificate within Youth in Action Programme activities in the region. Its main context is the improvement of youth work practice by recognizing the values of non-formal learning. Recognition of non-formal learning and different approaches of instruments to give and to get recognition is treated with appropriate respect and great importance by European institutions.

The overall aims of the TC are:

- to raise awareness of different types of learning within youth projects;
- to clarify development of competences through informal, non formal and formal learning;
- to provide participants with an overview of key competences as defined with the Youthpass;
- to practice the procedure of completing their own Youthpass certificate regarding the knowledge and experiences acquired during the Training Course.

Training Course learning objectives are:

- To experience and reflect on what makes a learning process a non-formal learning experience;
- To provide opportunities to practice specific tools and methods for self-assessment and feedback to be used in practice when working with young people;
- To explore and discuss different or similar understandings of non-formal learning in participating countries and its relation to youth and education policies;
- To raise awareness about the Youthpass as a tool for recognition of non-formal learning within the Youth in Action Programme;
- To experience Youthpass through implementing it during the training course;
- To understand the challenge of facilitating a process for assessing competences and learning outcomes within Youth in Action activities;
- To experience and discuss the educational values and potentials of Youthpass in the Youth in Action Programme and its different activities for individuals, NGO's, stakeholders etc.

Training Course methodology:

The course is designed as an open learning process based on participants' experience and exchange. The training course will follow the non-formal education approach. A combination of the different creative and interactive methods will be used by the international trainers' team and designed upon the profile of participants. The learning of new skills, the acquisition of knowledge and the exchange and challenge of each other’s attitude and experience are very important for this training course.

Some of the examples of methods that are going to be used in this training course:

- individual and group activities
- work on practical examples in a small groups
- thematic workshops
- role plays
- theoretical inputs
- practical presentation and creation of Youthpass certificate
- discussions on follow – up activities after this training course.

The entire course is designed as a mutual learning process in which, using diverse methods, participants can compare their approaches and experiences with youth work and Youth in Action programme. Trainers will establish a theoretical framework and common reference points for learning and communication in this course, at the same time providing a framework where participants will be able to exchange their experiences and to develop new ideas. The course methodology foresees direct involvement of the youth and youth work organisations that will be present at the training course. The course programme and contents are organised to allow for the maximum participation of the group using active and participatory methods.
